BF There is a good deal or absurd rumor afford purporting that President Tyler has appointed Messer, Webs: c and Upshir or Spencer Commis sinners to medicio or arbitrate between the old and the new D or Government in Runde Island The President has no nuthority to do any thing to the sort-no mind to do it. He recognizes no Government in Rhod-Island but that under which it came into the Union, voted for President, and is represented in Congress. It is understood however, that Mr. Webster's visit Enstward is it tended to avort the necessity of any resort to force in the premises, if it can be done by any action within the constitutional sphere of the Federa

5.7 The report that some twenty or thirty White clicers are to be turned out of the Custom Housat Philadelphia, because of a difference between President Tyler and the Senate with regard to Mr Tyum's appointment, is received with very general distayor by the press. We have no right to counse the President : but he could not do any thing mor effectual to draw the line between the great masof the Whig purty and his Administration than b such an arbitrary expulsion. And yet we hear the to this end Jonathan Roberts is about to be removed from the Collectorship and Thomas S Smith nominated as his successor.

Cossections. John M. PROF. BUSH'S LECTURES. - The closing Lecture of the excellent series Prof. Bush has been deliver ing for some weeks past at the University Chapel was listened to on Sunday evening last by a selecand most respectable audience. His subject was the End of the World; and the principal sime his remarks was to show that we have no warrant for interpreting any Scriptural prophecy to importhe physical destruction of this earth. He examined the several passages in Scripture which ar generally regarded as implying the consuming of with a great noise, &c., with a view to show, both by comparing them with other passages in which the same words are employed, and by their agree ment with the general import of Scriptural predic tiens, that these fore-hadowed revolutions refer t moral instead of physical changes. The phrase 'emof the world," he said, is translated more strictly in accondance with the import of the original by the word consummation of the ages; and he also estab lished by copious references that the words ' Earth, 'Henven,' &c., are often employed to signifmoral or civil governments; and that the changehere predicted in such strong and terrible language may well be held to imply great revolutions in th religious, moral and political relations of the differ cot nations of the Earth. These changes he be lieved would be gradual and marked by none of those wonderful phenomena which are very gene rally regarded as their harbinger. All the prophecies of Scripture thus far have been fulfilled i this way; natural agents are employed and the whole change is brought about by the operation of Prof. Bush did not believe that we have any warrant in Scripture for believing that this Earth will over be physically destroyed. The real inport of all the prophetic passages which allude to this point at all-and he maintained that the Bibl never spoke directly of the physical character of relations of the Earth-according to his apprehen sion, is that our planet is to be the scene of those giories attendent upon the new Jerusalem state and that its duration is indefinite-entirely in limited by any thing in the Sacred Record. And if we have reason to believe that the Earth wi ever have a physical end-will not be eternaexistent, (and he believed we have,) it must be found in Science and not in Revelation; it announced in the Apocalypse of Laplace and He chell, and not le that of St. John in the Isle .

Whatever might be the real character of these predicted changes-so for as the closest study of the prophetic numbers could throw light upon the subject-be believed that the time for their accomplishment is close at hand. He regarded it as excoolingly presumptuous to attempt to fix upon any procise time; but thought that the great and as tonishing revolutions now in progress all over the world, in all departments of action and of thought confirm the language of prophetic writ and made it evident that we are now standing upon the very borders of that puriod. If the passages cited really refer to the physical destruction of our globe-in his judgement, the period at which that great event is to occur is close at hand.

Prof. B. announced his intention-which we are sure will be especially gratifying to all who have heard the first-to deliver a second series of Lectures upon kindred subjects, such as the 'Resurrection of the Dead, the ' Locality of Heaven,' &c. In Rhode Island, it was in bad taste.

Glances at the Senate-No. 2. Idinarial Correspondence, Washington, M.
If untiring industry, abundant information sent good sense, a thorough mustery of Figures and a ready, free, forcible masner in debate way be held to constitue a safe and useful Legislator, nost men on the floor of the Senate. I have acaked his bearing in the responsible and difficult sort of Chairman of the Committee on Finance brough the discussions of the General Approprianame of his views, and rejoicing heartily to see andd to or extend the Appropriations of the mulities of Statesmanship, but even these were dolph and Potter. xhibited in the terse and vigorous observations in resented. Aware that, from the peculiar position of parties, any items evincing liberality of dispo-dition or a confident reliance on the discretion of the the Administration could not be expected to pass. the lawless assemblages to which reference is made, have already dispersed, and that the danne yet presented item after item, supporting each ger of domestic violence is hourly diminishing, if with an earnestness of purpose, cogency of argunent, and apparent confidence of success, as though conviction must be the result, yet submiting to defeat with perfect sunvity and good nature, and returning at once to the charge on a new item, ast ic and confident as before.

Mr. Evans's more labored efforts-especially hi Speeches, both at the former and present Session exposition of the state of the Finances on the 4th of March, 1841, and subsequently-have not been surpassed in their department by those of any Senator. Their clearness, cogency and truthfolness afford a striking contrast to the studied and ingenious mystifications of Messrs, Wright and Woodbury. No man could fail to see on their perusal that the last Administration persisted in spending much more than its accruing income in every year of its existence, plunging the country disreputably a debt, and leaving the Treasury empty, the debt nerensing and the Revenue declining, till its overhis (their Secremey of the Treasury having been who were chosen to saccred them in power, and resisted and condemned the increase of duties which their own acts had rendered indispensably pressingly necessary! These Speeches are in matter and manner alike admirable, as are all Mr. E.'s orensic efforts.

Mr. Evans is a new Member of the Senate, have ing entered this body on the 4th of March, 1841. For the twelve preceding years, or during the whole reign of Jacksonism and Van Burenism, he was a in their efforts to maintain a due respect for the the curb stones, and injuring Mr. Miller so hadly that it was feared he could not recover. He was thus precluded from illing any prominent position, save such as talent and capacity will secure even to a minority Member. His elevation in the first year of his Senatoria ourse to the post of Chairman of the Committee n Finance is an emphatic tribute to his ability and worth. Mr. E. is of ordinary size and status. and must now be some 45 years of age.

Yet, from information received by the Executive since your despatches came to hand, I am led to believe cally brought myself at any time to believe, that violence would be resorted to, or an exigency arise, which the unnided power of the State could not meet; especially as I have from the first felt persuaded that your Excellency, as well as others associated with yourself in the administration of he Government, would exhibit a temper of con ciliation as well as of energy and decision. To insurgents themselves it ought to be obvious, when the excitement of the moment shall have passed away, that changes nemered by regular, and, if accessary, repeated appeals to the constitutional authorities, in a country so much under the influence of public opinion, and by recourse to argument and remonstrance, are more likely to ensure lasting blessings than those accomplished by violence and bloodshed in one day, and hable to overthrow by similar agents in another. I freely confess that I should experience great rebectance in employing the military power of this E. Government against any portion of the peoplet 2. A New Miss — In the south cole of Amostreet, between Nasan and Williamstreets, an extremely rich mise has recently been discovered—not of precious metals—but of will in the person of Tom Beil, the auchonere. The fortunate editors of that region have only to raise their windows, and has scintillations full upon their sheets in wreathed smiles. Tom Beil, in fact, is the capital which supplies Attic humor for the city papers. His clear voice is heard, and the looked of the children of the city papers.
